

President's Change In Legislative Tactics Brings Cloakroom Talk

WASHINGTON—The President seems to have worked out a new strategy in sending legislation to Capitol Hill. At least, if the Treasury's Federal Reserve banking reform bill sets a precedent.

Hitherto, when important legislation was sent to Congress it was definitely tagged a New Deal bill and all the weight of the President's prestige and approval was thrown behind it.

But the new central bank bill is different.

It was merely sent to the chairmen of the Senate and House banking committees with word from Roosevelt that it was the work of Treasury and Federal Reserve Board authorities. He referred all questions regarding the bill to them.

Congressional cloak-rooms therefore are buzzing with speculation as to whether this side-stepping of Administration responsibility means the White House is lukewarm; or whether Congress is now coming back into its own as an actual legislative body.

A lot of members whose pride in authorship has been slighted in the past, feel that the latter should be the case.

After-Thought

RFC Chairman Jesse Jones is fond of footnoting cartoons of himself on the walls of his office. One of them depicts FERA's Harry Hopkins, but in hand, receiving a large denomination check from Jesse, who is saying:

"Harry, you know how I feel about this."

A caller remarked to Jesse that he had told Hopkins about the cartoon, and the latter had exclaimed:

"Why, the son of a gun!" Jesse laughed, observed: "I'm glad that all he said." Then, as an after-thought he added: "Say, are you sure that's what he said?"

Bulls-Eye

Senator Daniel O. Hastings had a few uncomfortable moments the other day during a hearing on the omnibus social security bill.

The pudgy little Delawarean was sharply interrogating Senator Bob Wagner, author of the measure. Finally, the New Yorker turned on him, inquired:

"Let's just get this straight for the record. Are you for old age pensions?"

Hastings was silent for a moment. "Would it make any difference in your answers if I said I wasn't?" he asked in reply.

"No, it would not," Wagner snapped back, "but we would be able to understand your question a great deal better."

Stumped

John Buell Snyder is a two-term Democratic Representative from Perryopolis, Pa. He is also a member of the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

But some things about Washington are still a dark mystery to him.

His committee was hearing a War Department official explain its appropriation requests the other day when a member of the committee asked the witness why a certain expenditure was made.

"That was done under authority of Executive Order," he replied.

Another member asked a similar question about another item. The official again referred to an executive order.

"By the way," interjected Snyder "who issues executive orders?"

NOTE: An executive order, as its title denotes, can be issued only by the chief executive of the United States.

COUNCIL PLANS DISCUSSION OF THREE TOPICS

Water Works Purchase,
Age Limitation, Finances To Be Talked

ALL ARE IMPORTANT

Ordinance For Police,
Firemen To Be Voted

Council meets this evening in what may be an important session. Three topics of general importance are scheduled to be discussed with definite action expected.

They are:

1. Possible purchase of the plant and distribution system of the Ohio Water Service Co.

2. A vote on the age limitation ordinance.

3. City finances.

The possible purchase of the water plant was broached at a committee meeting Monday morning attended by councilmen and other city officials. Just what immediate action is planned has not been disclosed but it is known there is considerable feeling among council members for the purchase.

Ready For Vote

The age limitation ordinance has already been read for the third time and is now in the hands of the ordinance committee which includes W. M. Reid, Ben Gordon and Julius Helwegson. This committee will return the ordinance for a vote possibly making recommendations. The committee will have a confab before council gets into session to make its final decision.

As the age limit now stands new police or firemen must not be less than 24 years nor more than 38 years of age. War veterans are urging that the age limit be definitely abolished as far as veterans are concerned, following the federal government's plan. There is also considerable feeling that 40 years should be the upper limit. Mayor W. B. Cady is favorable to the 40 year limit.

Some Without Pay

The financial topic is a touchy one since some of the city employees who should have received salaries February 15 are still without them. The general fund is depleted to a state of seriousness. It is possible the city may obtain an advance from the county late this week, but that is not certain.

What steps council can take to alleviate the situation are not known.

SIX FISHERMEN SAVED FROM ERIE

SANDUSKY, Feb. 20—Six Kelleys island fishermen, rescued from an ice floe after spending nearly eight hours adrift in Lake Erie while a blizzard raged over the region, were little worse for their experience today.

The men are George and Mike Durkett, Aaron and Francis Erbe, William Shosel and Tony Vassel.

The rescue was effected by islanders in small boats after the blizzard had subsided. The floe, with the six men and about a dozen ice fishing shanties aboard, broke away from the northern Kelleys island shore and headed for open water in Canadian Lake Erie.

The shanties were lost to their owner, but the loss was taken philosophically because dozens are carried out into the lake each spring when the ice starts breaking up.

YOUTH ADMITS SHOOTING GIRL

Ohio State Graduate Says "She Was Giving Me The Run Around."

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20—Wilbur McKinney, 23-year-old university graduate, today confessed, Police Captain John Dunn alleged, that he had shot and seriously wounded Miss Mary Lynch, attractive 24-year-old divorcee, as the climax to a quarrel in which he had accused her of "giving me the run around."

McKinney was taken into custody a short time after the girl was founded wounded on the north side as he registered at a downtown hotel. He told Dunn that he and Miss Lynch had quarreled intermittently throughout the night until the shooting early today.

Claims Intoxicated

At one time, McKinney claimed, Miss Lynch attempted to drink a bottle of poison but he snatched it from her. The incident, he said, took place in a downtown hotel bar. McKinney, who graduated from the Ohio State university in 1932 with a ceramic engineering degree, said he was drunk when the shooting occurred. He added that he had decided to get drunk because he was out of work and down-hearted.

Miss Lynch, his victim, was reported in a serious condition at University hospital. She and McKinney had been keeping company for some time, Mrs. Lawrence McKinney, mother of the university graduate, revealed.

"If prayers will make Mary well, the good Lord knows that she will get well soon," Mrs. McKinney said. "She was such a sweet girl and we all loved her."

No charges have been filed against McKinney pending the outcome of the girl's wounds.

HOUSE AND SENATE URGE VET PAYMENT

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20—Ohio legislative officials today dispatched to both houses of Congress copies of a joint resolution of the Ohio house of representatives and senate urging payment of the soldiers' bonus.

HUNSICKER TO PRESENT BILL

Foundation School Program,
Setting Minimums Per Pupil Is Read

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20—State Representative Clark K. Hunsicker of Pickaway-co was scheduled today to introduce a foundation school program providing a minimum of $45.90 per elementary pupil and $67.50 per high school pupil. The measure was scheduled for introduction in the House of Representatives before the "deadline" on introduction of bills was reached.

State Director of Education B. O. Skinner and organized school interests were reported "behind" the bill.

The contemplated measure is estimated to provide a total of $90,000,000 for current operating expenses of schools and does not include the bonded indebtedness which is to be taken care of locally.

Matter of providing the additional money will be a problem for the legislature if the bill is enacted. The bill provides for a 3-mill local mandated levy and a flat distribution from the state of $30.60 to $45.90. Where the two would not total or exceed the $45 to $67.50 foundation figure, then the difference would be made up from a state equalization fund.

Noses Will Quiver At Good Odors In Memorial Hall Next Week, Mouths Will Water and Pencils Will Click At New Dishes Demonstrated

Dishes for every meal of the day, for simple breakfasts and elaborate luncheons, for dinner parties and club suppers—these are only part of the exciting program offered by Mrs. George O. Thurn next week in her Cooking school.

"But a dish does not have to cost much to taste good," said Mrs. Thurn in discussing her programs. "We all know that it's smart as well as necessary—to be economical this year. And so, much of the cooking I shall do on the platform will have an economy appeal. But the recipes are new, they make you hungry just to read them over, let alone smell them while they are cooking."

"I've planned the sessions so that dishes of every variety will be offered before the week is ended."

Besides lecturing Mrs. Thurn will show new appliances of the latest approved models both electrical and non-electrical. The kitchen in which she works itself is to be a display of new equipment and utensils. In it this fa-

THREE GROUPS WOULD FORCE HOUSE ACTION

Bonus, Inflation, Labor
Forces Plan To Present
Petitions

OPPOSE PRESIDENT

Patman-Lemke-Lunde e n
Measures Ready

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—Bonus, inflation, and labor forces in the house today announced a plan for launching a big drive for enactment of far reaching legislation to which the administration is opposed.

The battle will be opened tomorrow by the filing of petitions in the house to discharge committees from consideration of anti-administration bills. Signatures of 218 members are necessary to bring bills to the house floor without committee approval.

Under house rules thirty legislative days must pass before petitions can be filed. The time limit is up tomorrow.

Limit Is Tomorrow

Bills on which petitions will be filed to force votes include: The Patman two billion dollar bill for cash payment of the bonus by issuance of new currency.

The Lemke bill to refinance eight billion dollars of farm mortgages at one and one half percent interest by issuance of new money. It is estimated that three billion dollars new currency would be needed.

The Lundeen old age pension and unemployment insurance bill estimated to cost eleven billion a year.

McALLISTER TO LAND IN CANAL ZONE SOON

British Ship Nearing Panama;
Prince To Miss Vacations
On Islands

The H. M. S. Australia, aboard which Maynard "Goofy" McAllister, Williamsport youth, is a passenger, is expected to dock in Colon, Canal Zone, within a few days.

McAllister was the cook aboard the Seth Parker adventure schooner, which was tossed by storms in the south seas a week ago. He and a number of other members of the crew were taken aboard by the British ship.

It was felt for a while that all was not well with the Australia since nothing had been heard from it for several days. It is safe near Panama, however.

The delay in its cruise caused by two runs to the side of the Seth Parker has resulted in the Duke of Gloucester, third son of King George of England, missing a vacation at Bermuda and the Bahamas. He will have to go home to take part in preparation for the King's jubilee celebrations in May.

2 Tulsa Youths Jailed in Hotel

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 20—Two wealthy Tulsa youths were placed under technical arrest here early today in connection with an investigation into the mysterious death of Sidney Born, Jr., last fall.

The two boys were ordered into custody today in a Pawnee hotel and were instructed that they must not leave the hotel under any circumstances.

The two rich Tulsans were released under technical arrest by a criminal investigator of Tulsa-co who spent the past ten hours questioning them. They were taken in custody as the trial of 19-year-old Phil Kennamer for the murder in Tulsa of John Gorrell, dental student, neared the jury.

Both of the boys were witnesses at the trial of Kennamer and, although their identities were learned by International News Service, the names were withheld at the special request of investigators until the pair were placed under actual arrest.

At first investigators planned to remove the pair to Tulsa, but when relatives of one of them asked that they be held in technical custody here an agreement to that effect was reached.

This was the first break in the investigation into the death of young Born, son of a Tulsa university professor. One week after the Thanksgiving night slaying of Gorrell young Born was found fatally wounded in an automobile in Tulsa early in December, 1934, under circumstances identical to the death of the Kansas City dental student.

Born's father insisted that his son had been murdered and refused to accept the verdict of suicide returned by a coroner's jury.

THOUGHTS OF SPRING

While there is still ample time for several weeks of old-fashioned winter weather over a large part of these tropical United States all minds turn to thoughts of spring.

No matter what the next few weeks hold forth, spring is on the way. The red thread in the thermometer stands a little higher. The sun is deserting the southern horizon and each day arises a little earlier and retires a little later in the evening.

Already there must be a seasonal stirring in those roots and bulbs which make April gay with color. And soon they will be sending upward toward the lengthening sunlight those shoots of green which make early spring a time of pleasant surprises.

And when spring comes garden time is just around the corner. Garden catalogues and window displays have already made their appearance by popular demand to aid the suburbanite and the farmer in laying their plans for planting. And soon the familiar odors of plowing and budding time in the country will clash in the sensitive nostrils of the motorists.

EXPLAINING DAD

When a son of a family gets old enough to marry, dad may drop a few hints about the advisability of selecting a nice sensible girl; but he doesn't intrude offensively, for down in his heart he feels that the affair is none of his business. All males have inalienable rights in these matters, even sons.

Daughter's ease is another matter. Dad remembers that he was a devil with the ladies and tried to kiss every girl he went with, and he is suspicious of the young males who hang about. He eyes them coldly. The young rascals! They need not look so innocent. Dad knows.

And when it appears that daughter really is in love with one of them and on the verge of marrying, dad begins to storm. He is helpless, and he knows it. But helplessness serves only to stir his wrath. He pouts. He makes pathetic remarks about how little the child he has played for loves him in return. He is coldly polite when the young man is present.

Now, what's the matter with the old chap? Dad's trouble is jealousy, nothing more. There is bred into his cosmos a conviction that the male is, and of a right ought to be, head of his clan, tribe and family. The advent of feminism may have turned the world topsy-turvy and made the woman boss, but it hasn't taken away the male instinct.

Think of daughter looking up to some other man—petting some other man—asking some other man's advice! Why, it means abdication! It means that old dad is a has-been, a toothless old wolf no longer revered as a leader of the pack.

And mother makes matters worse. She smiles on the young man. She praises him. The king is dead; long live the king!

Poor dad! Poor, forlorn, sidetracked, jealous old ex-chief.

LET THEM HEAR

Long and varied have been the inscriptions of tombstones, fluent and flowery the things said about a man after his death. He had worked hard during his life to the best of his ability and he has received his compensation—after he has passed away.

Why must we always wait to see a man lowered into his grave before we can realize his worth? Or realizing it before, why must we wait until death has taken its toll before we loosen our tongues and speak the words of gratitude? Is it a matter of policy? Is it ethics, or are we afraid of spilling the man by letting him know his value while he is still on this earth and able to enjoy our praise?

Better by far to take the chance of ruining the man by giving him his just dues than to try to prod him on by harsh words, or worse still, no words at all. Take him into your confidence. Let him know your opinion of him. It won't prove harmful. Rather it will bring out to the surface even better stuff than you thought was in him.

Let us, then, not be close mouthed in our praise for a man when he merits it. Give him his bouquets while he is still alive. Certainly, a compliment is more comforting than an epitaph.

Hastening recovery is easy. The hard job is first to decide who will get the biggest chunk of it.

The old wall phones had one advantage. People didn't talk so long when they couldn't sit down at it.

The marvel of it all is that the constitution of the United States was whipped into shape without the aid of an efficiency expert.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Calcar Products Corporation, a local concern, made a proposal to the city council to build a complete disposal plant in Circleville, operate it for a short period and then sell it to the city at cost. The matter was taken under advisement.

After a lapse of 20 years, the Pickaway-co Bar association assembled at the Borge hotel for a good will meeting and banquet. Twenty-one members were present. Meeker Terwilliger was toastmaster.

Bond for the city hospital totaling $75,000 and the bonds for the Pickaway power amounting to $1,000 were sold in Columbus at a bid of four and three-fourths percent and a premium of $100.

15 YEARS AGO

The Democratic executive and central committees of Pickaway-co endorsed George H. Pontius as a representative in congress.

The county commissioners passed a resolution to improve nearly three miles of road through Williamsport, known as the Cincinnati and Zanesville pike.

The Citizens Telephone Co. announced an increase in salary of operators to 25 cents per hour.

25 YEARS AGO

E. E. Watson of Williamsport found a large hornet's nest on the farm of W. I. Wood, the cattle king, north of Williamsport. The nest was taken to Columbus and placed on exhibition. It measured 36 inches in diameter and two feet in length.

The Circleville Nest of Owls initiated five fledglings into the mysteries of the order.

The contract for street sprinkling for the year 1910 was awarded by the board of control to W. H. Mason. His bond was fixed at $1,800.

Little Sister

CHAPTER 17

AS FOR THE thing Leila couldn't give Orton—that stimulation, that excitement of passion he had thought he saw in her once, and sought in vain afterwards—well, she'd make it up to him. She'd be a good wife. A hard worker on all the committees and affairs of the community, a hard-working playmate in all the sports he adored. She'd do her duty as if she were royalty's wife. . . . She'd do the very best she could to carry on the tradition of his mother and his own affairs.

She looked up from her tense resolve to find him back beside her. "I've been looking over the place. Fair enough suburban development; a little more ground than is financially necessary, but I suppose that's Addison's lack of business intelligence. Not as much class as I could wish, as near the specimen houses as this."

He eyed the specimen houses critically. Leila thought they were rather charming; the architect had gone a little Spanish, and the tinted stucco houses, with their lawns and verandas, were almost the perfect bride-trap. She had liked one herself. . . . You got so tired of lots of high ceilings and dark rooms and all the care and bother they were. The sunlight played over the retrieved beach, and on the building that might be described as a community house by Addison, but would make a much better beach casino, and on the small square erections along the beach which whatever Addison called them, were cabins, lacking only gay awnings and sprawling young people in bathing suits to be completely themselves. It seemed so dreadful that all this must turn into a ghost-city, a dead "development" . . . or be gobbled up for his private scheme by Robert Martin.

"You're sure your mother hasn't backed this, or done anything about it?" she asked as a forlorn hope, and was surprised to see Orton turn a deep scarlet.

"Whatever she has done is for everybody's good," he said stiffly.

"Are you sure she's not just passionately?" For people up against it, and out of work, and—

Orton looked at her with a little disapproval, there in the sunshine.

"It's all right to go in for charities; the women of my family always do," he said, "but I'd hate to think you got fanatic about them, Leila."

"I'm more likely to get fanatic over this being taken by the sheriff and leaving my family completely broke," Leila said. Then she was sorry. What was the use of saying anything to Orton but gay things, amusing things? That was what she was for, among other things. . . .

Now, now, my dear, you mustn't worry so much about business. Look on the bright side of things. . . . Why hello, Mary!"

Mary Martin was hopping out of her smart little streamline runabout, so low it would have grazed her eyebrows if she had had enough of them, and waved a hand in a red satin gauntlet. She had on red shoes, a smart black linen, and an immense floppy black hat that made her bonneted little figure and platinum ringlets more arresting still.

"Hello, Orton!" she called. "Hello, Leila darling! Came after my thrilling adventure, Orton! Seen him anywhere? And isn't this place the most delicious thrill? I told Addy he ought to put a lagoon in it, and he says maybe he will! I'm going to buy one of these darling little houses for myself. Jerry, Jerry, here I am!"

At least she was as pretty as Mary; her own curly chestnut crest never needed torture. Her own slim tall body never needed starvation. . . . she did not need mascara on her long black upturned lashes. And she was as smart. Her loose tweeds, her little pull-down hat, the daring, low cut at her throat were as daring, and better taste, than all Mary's exaggerated trappings. The small, calm comfort remained to her. She looked as well as Mary now. She would always dress as well as Mary.

The palms of Leila's hands were wet, and everything felt far off, unreal, horrible. She saw Jerry obediently returning. All the summer sounds and colors and smells were a dull unmeaning background for nothing at all. Somehow her marrying Orton wasn't half as dreadful as Jerry's marrying Mary.

"Somebody was saying something in a low voice at her side, very far off."

"Quite the little helpmate, isn't she?" Red was saying.

"Who?"

"Mary Martin. Another good man gone wrong. This time next year, instead of being one of the sweetest pals and best foreign correspondents that ever was, he'll be a wrap-carrying hellish husband, greeting his old friends with false heartiness or not at all."

"So it's true," Leila said to herself again. Evidently there had been a tiny thread of hope somewhere, because this statement of Red's hurt her as horribly as if she hadn't been sure—before. Mary thrust a possessive arm through Jerry's.

"Come on, look at some of these bungalowish cottages," said Mary cheerfully. "Good line? I got it off Jerry, didn't I, Jerry? All of you come see the place."

"No thanks, Mary," said Orton, still a little pained with her. "Got to go now. Seen all we came to see."

He retrieved Leila. She did not suggest that they try to see Bet and Addison again; it would have been difficult; they might be anywhere.

"I'm afraid it's true," said Orton heavily, "poor, poor little girl. Just too young to have any judgment. You might reason with her, Leila. She says she always feels you're so much older and more sedate than she is. Looks up to you a lot. Tell her what she's facing."

"Let's go back," said Leila. They got in the car and went. "You'll talk to poor little Mary?" demanded Orton anxiously.

How Plane Pilot Is Tested For Efficiency at Heights

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"EVERYWHERE inside the lifeless layer of skin which covers us, the organs and tissues are set in a fluid matrix. This internal environment has developed as organisms have developed; and with it there have evolved remarkable physiologic devices to which one must keep in constant touch. Though the outside world may be distressingly cold, though the heat and acid which arise from our own strenuous exertions must tend to become an overwhelming menace, we are not greatly disturbed, for our living parts touch only the body fluids which are maintained in an even and steady state. So long as this personal individual sack of salty water, in which each of us lives and moves and has his being, is protected from change, we are freed from serious peril. . . . Because this protection is afforded by special physiologic agencies, I have suggested that the stable state of the fluid matrix be given the name homeostasis."

So writes one of the greatest physiologists of our generation, Dr. Walter B. Cannon of Harvard. He goes on to show the mechanism which operates to keep this fluid stable.

An essential condition of life is to keep the body warm. When exposed to cold we have "goose flesh." What is the reason for it? Well, when the skin is exposed to cold, the sympathetic nervous system, driven by afferent from the attached glands, causes the muscles attached to the hairs to contract. With us the mechanism is no longer effective because we have lost our body fur.

But with a heavily furred animal or a bird, this raising of the hairs encloses a protective layer of poorly conducting air about the body, and this hinders the passage of heat outward.

Another example of reaction is found in the adjustment of the body to low oxygen pressures. This is a necessary part of the testing of an airplane pilot. He must be able to work efficiently at high altitudes. The adjustment which his body makes to the thinner air consists in mobilizing oxygen in the heart and brain—the two organs most sensitive to oxygen want—and is again accomplished by the sympathetic-adrenin apparatus. Failure to respond results either in fainting or failure of task performance—indicating failure, respectively, of the heart or brain.

As a rule, the athletic or physically fit person is best able to meet the adjustments. If the subject has a cold, or if the body is damaged by over-exertion, or by loss of sleep or by fatigue, the capacity for oxygen deficiency is reduced. One subject was exposed to an altitude of 22,000 feet for 15 minutes with no loss of efficiency. That evening he dined with friends, drank a moderate amount of alcohol, and went to bed late. The next day in his test he was unable to endure conditions which amounted to an altitude of 18,000 feet.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

Edith Wharton's "Strange Wives" starring Roger Proyer, June Clayworth and Esther Ralston is the feature attraction at the Grand theatre Wednesday and Thursday. In-laws moving into the love nest of a pair of newlyweds provide plenty of comedy.

A splendid stage show which includes comedians, dancers and orchestra and vocalists is booked at the Grand theatre this evening.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Hollywood stars may complain of having to get up at dawn and working far into the night, but Ramon Novarro and Evelyn Laye, co-stars of "The Night Is Young," opening tonight at the Cliftona Theatre, admit that acting has its compensations.

During filming of a dinner scene in the glamorous new musical romance, Novarro and Miss Laye were treated to genuine Wiener Schnitzel and a variety of other Viennese delicacies. The surprising fact about their repast was that it was personally prepared by Edgar Allen Woolf and Franz, who adapted "The Night Is Young" from the original story by Vicki Baum.

Both Woolf and Schulz, beside being known as two of the most prolific of Hollywood's writers, have reputations as amateur cooks of the first order.

More Taxes

At last I've found a reader of this column. He admits it, but fails to disclose his identity. He sent me a brief communication signed "D. E. B." which is as follows:

Dear Kay Jay—I read your story in today's column about the guy who was complaining about the sales tax, and it reminded me of a story I ran across the other day. Pass it along if you care to. Here it is:

Tax the people, tax with care. To help the multi-millionaire. Tax the farmer, tax his fowl. Tax the dog and tax his howl. Tax his pig, and tax his squeal. Tax his boots, run down at heel. Tax his horses, tax his lambs. Tax the blisters on his hands. Tax his plow, and tax his clothes. Tax the rag that wipes his nose. Tax his house, and tax his bed. Tax the bald spot on his head. Tax his cow, and tax the calf. Tax him if he dares to laugh. He is but a common man, so Tax the cuss, just all you can. Tax the laborer, but be discreet. Tax him for walking on the street. Tax his bread, and tax his meat. Tax the shoes clear off his feet. Tax the payroll, tax the sale. Tax all his hard-earned paper kale. Tax his pipe, and tax his smoke. Teach him governments is no joke. Tax their coffins, tax their shrouds.

Tax their souls beyond the clouds. Tax all business, tax the shop. Tax their incomes, tax their stocks.

Tax the living, tax the dead. Tax the unborn, before they're fed. Tax the water, tax the air. Tax the sunlight, if you dare. Tax them all, and tax them well. Tax them to the gates of hell. But close your eyes, so you can't see.

The coupon clipper go tax free.

A GREAT SPORT
Those who enjoy seeing and hearing the hounds in a fox chase are in for a rare treat on Friday of this week—Washington's birthday. They will have the opportunity to join in with hundreds of kindred spirits who enjoy the sport in an all-day chase east of Yellow-bud, where 3,000 acres of unfenced land belonging to the Stevenson estate will be at the disposal of the hunters and their dogs. This land is adjacent to the Scioto river and forms a natural amphitheatre for the chase, while the owners of the dogs may park themselves on adjoining hillsides and see all there is to see. There are not many spots in Ohio where such an event could be staged under such favorable circumstances.

The last fox chase held there was eight years ago, when there were 106 dogs entered. Several thousand interested spectators were on hand to enjoy the sport, all the adjoining counties being well represented, many coming from nearby cities.

The affair this year will start at 10 o'clock a. m., according to Robert L. Immell, who is urging all to attend. Food will be served by the ladies of the Springbank and Yellowbud churches.

DUMMIE PLAYS COSTS GAME

North would have been the K of hearts, to secure a club discard. Instead of this logical procedure East led the J of clubs to locate the missing Q. Of course North did not cover from it. He played low. East's Ace won the trick, and he pulled North's last trump. There was really nothing to even think about. A low club should have been taken with dummy's K, then the declarer could have discarded his last club on dummy's K of hearts.

Instead of this the declarer evidently had made up his mind that the club finesse was safe. He led a low club, finessed dummy's 10, and lost his setting trick to North's Q. It was as dumb a play as I have seen in a long time.

Three Hundred Witness Bridal Gown Revue; Gown of 100 Years Ago Is Modeled

Vocal and Organ Music Add to Success of Ladies' Aid Fete

ABOUT 300 persons gathered at the Presbyterian church, Tuesday evening, to witness the Bridal Gown revue sponsored by the Ladies' Aid society of the church under the very capable direction of Mrs. H. Stanley Lewis.

The church was never more beautiful. The altar was banked in ferns and lighted with cathedral candles, presenting a true wedding atmosphere. The aisles and improvised stage were covered with white linen.

Proceeding the revue, Mrs. Melvin Yates sang "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." Mrs. James Moffitt and Mrs. Harry Heffner sang "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "When You and I Were Young Maggie" was a solo by Mrs. Moffitt.

Mrs. Blanche Motschman, as each mannequin appeared, gave a splendid detailed description of the gown she wore.

Immediately after Mrs. Moffitt's sets the first wedding gown was displayed. It dated back to 1835 and was worn by Mary Stevenson, bride of Judge Chaney. It was especially color trimmed in simple fringe and braid. The gown was loaned by Mrs. W. L. Bowen, mother of Ray Bowen, teacher in the high school. With the dress was worn a bridal bonnet worn by Sarah Corwin who married John D. Sharp in 1835. This was loaned by her great granddaughter, Mrs. Lettie Frybach Shaner. Mrs. Theodore Huston modeled this lovely ensemble.

The second was a gown with a historical background dating to the beginning of Circleville, and was modeled by Miss June West.

The third gown, worn by Miss Mary Jane Kreisel, belonged to her grandmother, who was married in 1848.

Another interesting group of gowns appeared when Miss Betty Lee Nickerson, Miss Dorothy Sampson and Miss Ruth Robinson modeled dresses, which were part of the trousseau of the late Mrs. Thaddeus E. Cromley.

Other owners of gowns and models in the order of their appearance were:

Wedding dress of Mrs. O. B. Hornbeck, worn by Miss Esther H. Young; dress of Mrs. Charles Frey modeled by Miss Hilda Redd; gown of Evaline Everts, daughter of Ebenezer Everts, who donated the fund for Everts' high school, worn by Miss Lydia Given; Mrs. E. P. Dresbach's modeled by her granddaughter, Miss Mary Crites; Mrs. Hatley Clarke's by Miss Mary Rader; Miss Cynthia Renick's by Mrs. Tom Renick; a bustle mas-

Unusual Program Presented at Annual D.A.R. Washington Tea

A most unusual and interesting program was enjoyed by eighty members and guests of Pickaway Plains chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, when they gathered at the home of Mrs. L. T. Shaner, E. Union-st., Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for the chapter's annual George Washington tea.

Two musical numbers opened the program, "When You and I Were Young Maggie" and "Long, Long Ago," sung by Mrs. James P. Moffitt.

Following these, Mrs. Harry Lewis read a very excellent paper, "The History of the Shawl" written by Mrs. R. R. Bales.

The next numbers on the program were two songs, "The Old Maid Shawl" and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" sung by Mrs. Harry Heffner.

The "Pageant of Shawls" which followed these musical selections was a most delightful one. Seventy-seven shawls, of all kinds and descriptions, with appropriate costumes were modeled during the pageant. As each shawl was shown, the history of the garment was read by Mrs. Lewis. The shawls dated from one brought to this country from China on a sailing vessel over a hundred years ago, to ones of more recent dates. Beautiful Paisleys, Kashmirs, silk and lace shawls, in fact shawls of all descriptions were brought out of their precious wrappings for this occasion.

The interesting histories of each one, along with the privilege of viewing these beautiful garments made the occasion one long to be remembered by all present.

During an intermission in the pageant Mrs. Harry Heffner and Mrs. James Moffitt sang a group of duets, "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Home, Sweet Home," and "All Through the Night."

Miss Abbe Mills Clarke accompanied all the musical numbers on the piano.

The ladies, who so charmingly modeled the shawls were Mrs. L. T. Shaner, Mrs. Glenn I. Nickerson, Mrs. G. L. Schiear, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, Mrs. Clark Hunsicker, Mrs. Helen Anderson, Mrs. Harp Van Riper and Mrs. Anna Ball.

At the close of the pageant Mrs. Lewis read a very appropriate poem, "I Love Old Things" by Wilson McDonald.

Following the program tea was

BOBCATS SURE OF LEAGUE TIE

Lead of 18-13 at End of Third Period Dwindles After Grant Goes Out

The Tigers faltered in the home stretch, Tuesday evening, and rampant Grandview Bobcats, title-bound, won a hard-fought 24-20 contest. At the outset of the final period the Tigers, by virtue of a spirited third period rally, led 18-13.

A moment before the third quarter closed Freddie Grant, who had been playing a nice floor game, went out on fouls. Grandview then caught up with the Red and Black and two field goals by Forest, sub forward, clinched the ball game.

With the game went a certain tie for the Central Buckeye league title. Grandview has now lost one game with eight and must meet Bexley Thursday evening in the final league game. A victory would clinch the tie but a loss would give the Bobcats no worse than a tie providing Westerville should defeat Delaware and this season probable.

Cut Early Lead
Fans, who witnessed the Grandview-Tiger contest, termed it the best played on the local court this season. The invaders, coached by clever Bill Zwick, took an early 6-2 lead but this had been cut to a single point 13-12 at halftime.

When the third period opened the Tigers were convinced Grandview was not invincible so started to work. The play of the Red and Black in this period was their best of the year. But the fourth period proved fatal.

The score by quarters was:
Grandview 6 13 13 24
Circleville 2 12 18 20
Ray, tall forward, and Glass, center, were handicuffed by the Tiger defense. It was largely the work of Delaware and DeVictor with the sub, Forest, getting in his hand, that stopped the local Bobcats. A clever ball handler, tossed the ball through the hoop three times from the court and once from the charity line. DeVictor counted five points to tie with Thacker.

Kirwin and Jenkins tied for point honors for the Tigers with five each.
Bill Hunt, Columbus Academy coach, refereed.

The Tigers close their season when Marysville invades the local court Friday evening the game being called at 7:30.
The lineup:
Grandview (24) G. F. M. P. T.
Thacker 4 2 3 1 1
Ray 1 1 1 1 1
Forest 1 1 1 1 1
Glass 1 1 1 1 1

About This And That

Affects Hunters
A bill described as a boon to squirrel hunters was presented in the Ohio senate. The bill would move the open season back 15 days. Squirrels now may be taken from Sept. 15 to Oct. 1, under the new bill it is changed from Oct. 1 to Oct. 15. The change was deemed necessary to protect young squirrels.

Ramago To Retire
His fight against Joe Louis, sensational negro from Detroit, will determine whether Lee Ramago, San Diego heavyweight, will continue his ring career. Ramago, who is second to Maxie Baer in California ring circles, said today that unless he defeats Louis at Wrigley field, Los Angeles, he will retire. Ramago, right eye says, lacks the skill instinct necessary to go places.

Berens After Record
Bernard (Beanie) Berens, Ohio university's six-foot, five-inch tall center and leading scorer in the Buckeye conference this year, will have his last chance tonight to put his record beyond reach this year when the Bobcats meet Miami University here.

Berens has scored 106 points in league play during the season. Carl Austing, last year's pace setter, is pushing him hard with 96 points and one game to play. Austing wears Cincinnati colors.

Besides leading individual scoring this year, Berens, since he became a member of the Bobcats, has broken the all-time state scoring record, and the Buckeye conference record for netting the most points in a single game.

Berens has marked up more than 750 points in his entire collegiate career, surpassing the old mark set by Eddie Wentz of Akron, who looped 661 points during games in the three years he played collegiate basketball in 1919, '20 and '21.

He learned his basketball on the scholastic floor of Lancaster St. Marys, where he made more than 500 points in two years while a member of the high school squad. The tilt tonight will mark the Bobcats' last conference clash this year.

"GUARD BALL" COACHES CRY

Plenty of Foul Shooting Practice, Defensive Work on Schedule

Pickaway-co high school cage squads are "toeing the black line" and being drilled diligently in the art of "guarding the ball not the man." This week, as coaches send their athletes through the final practice sessions for the 1935 county tournament, which opens at the CAC gym, Saturday at 1 p. m., "Experience is the best teacher," remarked one county coach yesterday in discussing the procedure he is having his squad follow in practices this week. His team was eliminated last spring because they could not connect with the basket from the charity line and because they fouled excessively.

To commit a few fouls as possible and to be prepared to cash in on the free throws awarded because of opponents fouls will be the object of each team competing. "Basketball is really basketball when it is played and officiated that way," this coach remarked. The fact that added thrills and many sensational plays are in prospect at this year's tournament, because clean, closely officiated basketball is in prospect, will undoubtedly increase the tournament crowds. The fans who plank down their cash at the box office expect plenty of action in return, and they usually get all the thrills they can digest when the play is clean, fast and aggressive.

Every team has its best chance in this type of basketball. Teams with small players are at little disadvantage when the official doesn't permit the larger boys to "smooth" them. It places a premium on team work, speed and natural ability.

ALL INDIANS SIGN
CLEVELAND, Feb. 20.—For the first time since the Alva Bradley interests took over the Cleveland Indians in 1928, the entire roster of players today was signed to contracts prior to the departure of the first group of players to spring training camp.

The following bills were allowed by the County Commissioners Monday:
T. M. Barnes, labor at county garage, $48.00.
Turney Clifton, hauling and spreading gravel on roads, $102.58.

COUNTY BILLS ARE REPORTED

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks black, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, castor oil, or anything else and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
If they can't do it, they only move the bowels and a movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just clogs in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a flat, bad taste and your breath is foul. You often break out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes this good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of flowing freely and make you feel "Up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
Don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. Buy at drug stores or 100¢ C. M. Co.

Girl Scout News
Circleville Girl Scout troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Friday, Feb. 15, in the basement of the Presbyterian Church. We worked on our mosaic work before the meeting. As it was impossible to have our cover-dish supper last Tuesday, it was planned for Thursday. Possibilities for the party on Girl Scout Birthday, March 12, were discussed. After songs and a game we retired to our patrol corners. We closed with the radio handclasp and taps.

moniously together as colleagues on the NRA board.
But there was a time only a few months ago when relations between them were quite different.
As head of the Reynolds Tobacco Company and spokesman for fellow cigarette manufacturers, Williams was then vigorously opposing Hillman, who as labor's representative, was demanding the inclusion of certain wage and hour levels in the industry's code.
At one hearing the two men went at one another hammer and tongs.
That night Williams was idling with a group of businessmen in a hotel lobby. Some one raised the question whether the President would veer to the Right or Left.
"I don't care which way I go," Williams broke in. "What I'm interested in is whether this man Hillman or we are going to run our business."

Homesick

Harry Moore is homesick. New Jersey's former Governor, now her new Democratic Senator, finds that the classic halls of Congress are not what they are cracked up to be.
"From a boy I have thought of the United States Senate in terms of the Great Daniel Webster, august and eloquent, stirring the passions and the minds of men. But now I am a member of that distinguished body, and everything is different. When one member takes the floor, the others get up and walk out. And I don't blame them!"

But despite occasional disgust with the tanglefoot methods of Congress, Moore has received two important committee assignments, and has won a lot of respect from Senate leaders.

510 Bills Thrown Into Hopper

DAVEY STUDIES HIS PET BILLS

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20—The biennial grand rush of members to get under the wire with pet measures reached its zenith today, the last day for introduction of bills in the 91st Ohio General Assembly. There already has been introduced in the two branches a total of 510 bills—338 in the House and 174 in the Senate. Before the deadline tonight the total was expected to swell to 700, only a small fraction of them standing any chance of being enacted into law.

After today members may introduce new measures only after obtaining the consent of three-fifths of the membership. The governor can lay new proposals before the assembly merely by sending up a special message extending the scope of the session.

Recess In April
It is the intention of administration leaders to recess until next Fall immediately after passage of the biennial appropriation bill, probably about the middle of April. The Senate rules committee has set March 15 as the tentative recess date, but only as a mark to shoot at and with no hope of the appropriation bill being out of the way that early.

The appropriation bill for the biennium has not been introduced yet because the finance committees have not received the budget recommendations from the governor. But the deadline for new bills will have no effect here. Appropriation measures, with the consent of the finance committee, can be offered anytime.

Governor Davey held off the administration-sponsored proposals until the nominal deadline. Returning from Washington, where he conferred with federal officials on relief, the executive denied himself, to callers and spent the day poring over bills drafted for him by his special bill-drafting committee.

Barring radical alterations the governor might see fit to make before the administration bills go to the House and Senate this afternoon, those to be introduced now cover the following subjects:

1. Creation of a state bureau of criminal investigation patterned after the federal bureau, to be offered in the Senate.
2. Liquor control act alterations, including a provision making it a felony to accept a fee for assisting in obtaining a permit, to be offered in the Senate.
3. Payment of taxes in easy installments, to be offered in the House.
4. School financing with a foundation program supported by the state, to be offered in the House.
5. Building and loan association regulations, to be offered in the Senate.
6. Decentralization of the state utilities commission, to be offered in the House.
7. Decentralization of the state industrial commission, to be offered in the House.

REEPS ARRIVE; SERVICES BEGIN

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Reep, who were detained at their home over Sunday on account of sickness arrived Tuesday afternoon and conducted a half hour song service at the Calvary Evangelical church at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Reep sang a duet. Mr. Reep and Ray Beery sang solos. The song service was very inspiring and helpful.

"The Promise" was the theme of Rev. E. Radebaugh's sermon last night. He said in part:

"The Holy Spirit gives power in prayer."

"It was the normal thing for the early church to pray."

"What wonderful things the church could do if each individual member were filled with the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit coming upon the church will separate it from the world. The Church of Jesus Christ is to be a separate body of men and women."

Prayer service from 7 to 7:30 p. m. will precede each night's service.

MISS HUBER'S

Campbell and Pond said "they would look after her until her pension from the state retirement fund is available."

Suffered Injury
It was in Feb. 1931, that Miss Huber, while in Xenia on a shopping expedition for boys of the home, fell and broke her hip.

Her hospital and medical bill took the last of her savings.

She claims she was not allowed to file a claim for state compensation to which, she asserts, she was entitled.

Now at 73 years of age she is penniless and unless she is provided with food and shelter at the institution she has served it is "over the hills to the poor-house" for her.

Those claiming to be close to the throne assert that an investigation of the Home is certain.

It is said the taunt is freely bandied about that the Trustees, not the Governor, are running the home and that they will not tolerate interference even if the head of Ohio is entitled to the courtesy his post demands.

In connection with this whole matter it is realized, of course, it is difficult to keep nepotism out of public places. One former trustee, it is claimed, has five relatives now on the Home pay roll. An informal poll of employees seems to indicate that ninety per cent are of Republican origin.

Friends of Capt. Hays assert that Miss Huber has reached the age where her work is not of great value.

Partisans fling the charge that Capt. Hays has declared Democrats were not wanted at the Home. Those who know Hays believe he is too broad to be guilty of any such assertion. It is added that there has been no such thing as political fairness during the Hays regime.

At any rate a hornet's nest has been stirred up and a probe is believed to be imminent.

OHIO HOUSE ROUTS DRYS

Bills to Amend Act Work In Reverse With Wet Forces In Action

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20—Smarting under defeat suffered in their first major engagement with the wets at the current session of the Ohio legislature, drys in the house of representatives today marshalled their forces for another assault on the sale of beer and intoxicating liquor to minors.

They fared badly in the initial clash, losing instead of gaining ground. As the Hall-Ashbolt bill finally passed in the House, it amends the liquor control act to permit the sale of 3.2 beer to persons of any age. Under the present law they must be at least 16.

In its original form the measure sponsored jointly by dry Reps. Forrest Hall (R) Senecaville, and W. E. Ashbolt (R) Lorain, would have provided drastic fines and imprisonment of from one to five years for selling or giving liquor or beer to persons under 21 years old.

Even parents who gave their 20-year-old son or daughter a glass of beer would have faced a $300 to $5,000 fine and imprisonment under the original bill. Rep. J. A. Donbeck, (D) Cleveland, a wet, brought out during debate.

But the wets, wrecking crew got busy with an avalanche of amendments well calculated to undermine the effect of the Hall-Ashbolt proposal and they were supported almost solidly by the large delegations from urban centers of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Toledo and Youngstown.

MEAT IS WASTED, 7 FACE CHARGES

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20—Seven officials of a government surplus meat canning plant here face federal prosecution as a result of an investigation which disclosed hundreds of pounds of fresh meat had been carried away and permitted to spoil. The meat was for the needy.

MAN IS SUICIDE; GONE SINCE JAN. 2

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20—Angelo Vangelis, 42, proprietor of the Franklin Grill, who had been missing since Jan. 2, committed suicide in Philadelphia, Pa., it was learned here.

SUIT EXPLAINED BY C. P. HEISKELL

The suit of Stella M. Dawson, Perry-twp, in which the New York Life Insurance Co. and the Commercial bank of Clarksburg are named defendants, was explained today by C. P. Heiskell, agent of the insurance company.

He said his company, which has numerous clients in this county, is not declining to pay $4,318.66 allegedly due Mrs. Dawson but is uncertain whether to pay the check to her or to the bank. The insurance company, Mr. Heiskell said, has written the check for the full amount but has not delivered because of controversy between Mrs. Dawson and the bank. As soon as this is settled the insurance company will immediately deliver the amount to whoever it is due.

puzzling. We must make more and more definite the responsibilities of all the parties concerned."

Instead of beating backward, Mr. Roosevelt declared, NRA must go forward to greater accomplishment—but through cooperation and education rather than coercion.

He indirectly suggested that in revamping the Recovery act, congress remove the penal threat for code violators.

Modern Three-Minute Way to Ease Sore Throat

1. Grind and stir 4 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third glass of water.

2. Gargle Thoroughly—throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat. Do this twice. Do not rinse mouth.

3. If you have a cold, take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Drink full glass of water. Repeat if necessary, following directions in package.

Ease Pain, Rawness, Soreness Almost Instantly

Here's a safe, modern and effective way to relieve sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes. Many doctors advise it and millions are following this way. Try it.

All you do is crush and stir 4 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in 1/2 glass of water and gargle with it twice—as pictured here. (If you have signs of a cold, take BAYER Aspirin and drink plenty of water.)

Get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. They disintegrate quickly and completely, making a gargle without irritating particles.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.
